Dear Harold,

I hope this letter finds you in good health and spirits.

I wish to thank you for replying to my letter at last summer. I regret getting sidetrack and not being able to thank you until now. One of the reasons for my delay is that I am attending college while working at a local Radio Shack. So, time does get the best of me every now and then. I am studying American History at North Adams State college and I am in my junior year. I hope to have my Bachelor's Degree in 2 or 3 years. Working, and attending School, is quite a difficult task. More difficult then I ever imagined.

I have to laugh along with you at my sending last year letter via certified mail. I suppose when I wrote it, I was a little paranoid from all the assassination literature I had read. I'm only reading what anybody in the USA can read off a bookshelf. It's the ~~real~~ researcher who, I guess, might be endangered if he looks around in the wrong places. Have you never been afraid during your researching of the JFK case?

In your letter of last August, you mention a documentary by somebody by the name of Scott. Who is this person? Can you explain what the documentary is about. Can I obtain a copy from you?

From what reading I have done on the JFK murder, everyone praises you for your landmark work in the case and they put you at the top of the list in honesty, diligence, credibility. Why have you invested a good part of your life to something so baffling? Was it common curiousity? I know I am drawn to "it" for two reasons. One, human curiousity. And, Second, I have always admired President Kennedy and I want to know why he was murder. What did he do that angered somebody, or a group, to want to murder him? Other presidents have angered powerful blocs of citizens and have not been assassinated. It is baffling, is it not? I hope you don't spend all of your time on the assassination. What are your other interests?

An interesting observation. Nobody in officialdom wants to touch the Kennedy case. And yet, there is a constant barrage of books and related material, published. Now, not all of these books published make their authors millionaires, right? So, would I be correct in saying that most of the authors publish their works in order to present their thesis, and, hoping their research will further the murder probe along to justice? Or, are most of these authors shallow, self-centered people who want a fast buck and purposely muddy the waters in order to mess up any hope of finding facts?

As you can see I have a lot of questions. Are there still lectures or Symposiums about the JFK assassination? I know there were many in the 1970's when new facts were being discovered daily. I would anticipated a Symposium on this subject with a passion. I know I missed one such meeting in 1988 at the University of Pittsburgh. Did you attend this seminar? Do you still give lectures on the assassination?

Thank you very much for reading my letter. And thank you for being so kind in replying fast with my questions of last Summer.

Sincerely

Mark
